St. Olaf Choir Sings Here January 5

We welcome the St. Olaf Choir and its director, Dr. Anton Armstrong, to worship services on Sunday, January 5. This is a long-standing and deeply beloved tradition at St. John's as we welcome the choir back to the place of its birth and as we are blessed by their wonderful leadership and music.

A reception in honor of the choir will be held between services in St. John's Hall. Please take the opportunity to welcome the St. Olaf Choir back to St. John's!

Letter from Pastor Fickenscher

December 6, 2013

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ:

I am honored to receive your letter of call to serve as Senior Pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, and after prayerful consideration I am delighted to accept this call to serve with you in Christ's mission.

I look forward to beginning ministry with you in January and will pray for you in this season of waiting and in the farewells taking place among you in these days. I give thanks for the wise pastoral and lay leadership you have received over these many past months – God has blessed you very richly with wisdom and gifts. I look forward to working with your staff and lay leadership in all the transitions yet to come.

As I complete over eleven years of ministry at Edina Community Lutheran Church this month, I ask that you also keep me and my family in prayer amidst our many good-byes. Will, Katie, Johann, and I all look forward to getting to know you and the whole Northfield community in the months and years to come. We are grateful and hopeful for many new beginnings in 2014, trusting that the Spirit will continue to lead us forward together.

In Christ,

Pastor Pamela Fickenscher

Our Mission: As followers of Jesus Christ, the members of St. John's Lutheran Church welcome all people to join us in celebrating God's grace, nurturing their faith, and reaching out to the world in love and service.

Blues and Depression

In everyday living we experience highs and lows. Feeling sad, or having the blues, can be part of our ordinary emotional cycle. Sometimes normal feelings of sadness are accentuated by the holiday season, the darkness of winter months, or losses and troubles in our lives.

If these feelings continue longer than a few weeks, they may be caused by depression. Depression is a serious medical illness that requires treatment. It is not something that we can “snap out of” with will power. Depression affects everyday living—it may cause changes in eating, in sleeping, and in relationships with others. A person might experience symptoms of depression suddenly, for no apparent reason, or after a life-changing event or medical illness. Some types of depression can run in families, and it is possible that a biological vulnerability can be inherited.

The symptoms of depression can usually be managed with the help of medical professionals. If someone you know could be suffering from depression, encourage that person to talk to a physician. Meanwhile, stay

Northfield Grief Support Coalition:

Grief support group meets this month on Mondays beginning January 13 from 3:00-4:00 p.m. at the Three Links Care Center. For more information contact Pr. Kristine Braaten-Lee, 664-3478 or Barb Knaak, 646-0444.

Grief Care Resource: Care Notes are one of the grief support resources at St. John's. Stop by the Commons to pick one up for yourself or for a loved one.

Prayers for healing, joys, and all concerns are offered every Sunday morning between services in the prayer chapel near the choir room on the second floor.

in touch with that person by sending cards or e-mailing, by telephoning or arranging time for conversation. People suffering from depression require patience and steady, consistent support from those near to them, as well as professional care.

Stephen Ministers are not trained to treat depression, but they can be listening companions for those with depression, and they can provide support through prayer and Scripture. If you know of someone who would benefit from a Stephen Minister as they deal with depression, call one of the pastors (507-645-4429) or Pam Schwandt (507-645-6120).

The following St. John's members died in this month last year. We list them so that we can remember these loved ones and their families in prayer "with reverence and affection."

Music and Worship Life at St. John's

December 2013 was a colder month than some Decembers and many nights the evening sky was exceptionally beautiful. A few times I just had to go outside to gaze up at the clear sky, the bright moon and the stars – little brilliant spots dotting the vast darkness. These moments precipitated thoughts of angels over Bethlehem and one of my favorite Christmas poems by Robert Bridges: In terra pax.

*A frosty Christmas Eve
when the stars were shining fared I forth alone
where westward falls the hill...*

*...Then sped my thoughts to keep that first Christmas of all,
when shepherds watching
by their folds ere the dawn heard music in the fields and marveling could not tell whether it were angels or the bright stars singing...*

Most musical settings of the angels' Christmas song of Gloria are big, energetic, exciting. But I wonder. Could it be that God, whose values often are not ours, does it again, turns our expectations upside down? Could it be that angel singing is a shimmering, quiet, peaceful sound? Could it be that in our ever increasingly busy, noisy world, over filled with music, news, and general hubbub, we drown out the sound of angels?

I think C. S. Lewis would answer these questions with a resounding, yes! That Hideous Strength is the third volume of his Space Trilogy, a kind of allegorical saga. He writes of strange goings on behind closed doors in a house in Cambridge, England. There is a soft glow emanating from around the closed doors to a large room; there are gentle, sighing, haunting sounds. The reader is led to wonder if there are angels in the room, God's messengers.

My hope and prayer for all of us during Christmastide and Epiphany 2014, is that we find time to just be still; and, if it's not too cold, venture out on a quiet, clear night and gaze at the heavens. Perhaps, just maybe, through the profound, yet radiant silence we might hear a bit of the angels' song of peace, goodwill to all the earth.

A blessed New Year to all.

John Ferguson
Interim Director of Music

Can You Host a Music Therapy Student?

Laura Baker Services offers a music therapy internship program through the American Music Therapy Association. Students from around the country are eligible to apply for this 6 month, full time internship that begins at various times throughout the year. But, often these students find it hard to find housing for a 6 month term! If you know of a possible short term rental opportunity or would consider hosting a student for a 6-month span of time, please contact Jenny Pelletier. Your contact info would be part of a "resource list", so no specific commitment is needed at this time. Thanks for reaching out to students in this important way!

Thanks to all who helped with the Advent Fair!

Thanks to St. Johns youth who came to bag groceries at Econofoods! The twist was that instead of asking money of people as a fundraiser, St. John's kids bagged groceries and then handed out $5 bills attached to a card listing various charitable organizations as a way to be of service and to encourage people in the community to be a blessing to someone during Christmas. Students encountered various reactions of excitement, appreciation and confusion upon receiving the gift. St. John's received many positive comments from the community.

Thank you to everyone who helped with the Sunday School Christmas Program! Special thanks to the Sunday School Christmas Program team: Sue Brockman, Jenny Pelletier and Frances Boehning.

Bearers of The Light

By Barbara Eaves

Taking down the Christmas decorations and storing them for another year often results in a mix of emotions. On the one hand is the desire and readiness to get back to more routine and less clutter; on the other hand the house may seem somewhat bare and colorless. In our home we continue to use some strings of white lights and candlelight throughout the winter, enjoying their warmth and also knowing that light is one of the strongest symbols of hope.

In Herman Melville's novel, Moby Dick, the sailors on board the boat hunting for the white whale, encounter a fierce storm at sea which swamps their boat, threatening the lives of all on board. In an attempt to send a distress signal to nearby boats, the first mate, Starbuck, ignites the lantern and hands it to Queequeg, the standard bearer. "There, then, he sat, holding up that imbecile candle in the heart of that almighty forlornness. There, then he sat, the sign and symbol of a man without faith, hopelessly holding up hope in the midst of despair."

This quotation is a great metaphor for those of us who are receivers of the light of Christ. The season of Epiphany reminds us that we, too, become standard bearers, boldly holding up The Light as a beacon of hope in the midst of the storms and dark passages of life.

*Guided by the star, they found him whose praise the ages sound,
We too have a star to guide us,
which forever will provide us
with the light to find our Lord,
with the light to find our Lord.*

Reflecting on the Legacy of Martin Luther King, Jr.

January 20, 2014 is Martin Luther King, Jr. Day. Dr. King was a graduate of Morehouse College and received his PhD in systematic theology from Boston University. He became one of the great leaders of the American civil rights movement during the 1960s which advocated for equality for black Americans. Dr. King's philosophy of non-violence was greatly influenced by the teachings of Jesus as well as Mahatma Gandhi and Leo Tolstoy. For his work to change the great wrong of racial discrimination through peaceful means, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was awarded the Nobel Peace prize in 1964. Upon receiving the award, Dr. King's comments included his admiration for the non-violent example of Gandhi who had successfully opposed the British Empire in India with only weapons of truth, soul force, non-injury, and courage. Keep Dr. King, this great man of peace, in mind on January 20.

CREATING A BELOVED COMMUNITY

Northfield's tradition of a double celebration of the work of Martin Luther King, Jr. continues this year with a program at Arcadia Charter School on Friday, January 17 at 7:00 p.m. and a second one sponsored by the Northfield Human Rights Commission on Monday, January 20 at 7:00 p.m. at St. Dominic Church.

Both are open to all interested persons.

The Friday program by the students at Arcadia and members of the community reflect the message and accomplishments of Dr. King. Responses in visual arts, speeches, and music indicate "Arts for Martin." Be alert to invitations to community members to join in the chorus. Sharif Keita is the featured speaker on the life of John Dube, a precursor in Africa to Dr. King and Nelson Mandela.

"Creating a Beloved Community" — a central focus of King's legacy — is the theme of Monday's community event. Recognizing that the Beloved Community is the framework for the future, our Human Rights Commission has chosen to emphasize the role of Northfield youth.

"Northfield is a community composed of a wide variety of people. Each one is important and valuable; each has her or his own contributions to make and needs and desires to be respected and supported," says Corinne Smith, chair of the Commission. "The most important and vital part of our community is the youth. They provide us energy and a pathway and guide to the future," she asserts.

During this Martin Luther King, Jr. Day event, the focus will be on a few youth groups within our community, she continues. "These young people will share with us what community means to them and what they are hoping for in our community."

Providing them a community in which they can grow and thrive is the role of the Commission, all citizens, and citizen groups. "We do this, as with all persons, by building relationships in which we strive to know and understand them as full people," Smith adds. This echoes the goal expressed by the MLK Center in Atlanta of a reconciled world where relationships are so healthy that justice prevails and all persons can attain their full human potential.

Creating a such a community asks for positive action on the part of every citizen and in turn benefits each of us.

Plan to attend both celebrations if you can!

Learning More About the Challenges in the Rice County Justice Systems

Peace and Justice continues to examine opportunities to address the issues raised by the ELCA study on Crime and Justice. We have invited Rice County probation officer Angela Brewer to speak on Monday, January 6, 2014, at 7:00 p.m. in the Fireside Room. Ms Brewer has been a probation officer for over 15 years. She will be speaking about her agency, juvenile delinquency, and gangs as well as opportunities on how we might be able to help.

Forum Topic on Sunday, January 26: Joint Religious Coalition Update

Organizing for Social Justice is the mission of the Joint Religious Legislative Coalition (JRLC) comprising the Minnesota Council of Churches, the Minnesota Catholic Conference, the Jewish Community Relations Council and the Islamic Center of Minnesota. The JRLC website states: "We tap into deeply held religious principles and organize faithful citizens across Minnesota to build civic capacity for our advocacy work and for a healthier democracy."

The speaker at the St. John's Forum on Sunday, January 2, will be Brian Rusche, JRLC Executive Director. He will acquaint us with current Minnesota Legislative issues and encourage us to advocate with our legislators for social justice as they write legislation that addresses such issues as health care, hunger, eliminating poverty, child care, education and housing.

The Southeastern Minnesota Synod, ELCA, is a member of the Minnesota Council of Churches.
